

Orvibo and Silicon Labs Improve Smart Home Experience with New Smart Panel

--New Orvibo Smart Home AloT MixPad Series Leverages Silicon Labs Zigbee Wireless Technology--

SHENZHEN, China – Dec. 10, 2020 Silicon Labs (NASDAQ: SLAB), a leading provider of silicon, software, and solutions for a smarter, more connected world, and Orvibo, an AloT smart home device, systems, and solution provider, announce a collaboration to develop a new line of smart home devices using Silicon Labs' Zigbee wireless technology. Orvibo's latest MixPad series product lines leverage the Silicon Labs' Zigbee EFR32 MG21 SoC solution to reliably connect smart home panels and switches to many applications, including lighting, curtain, HVAC systems, and home security devices.

"Orvibo is making the smart home experience more convenient, comfortable, and secure with the extension of its product portfolio, and Silicon Labs is proud to play a key role with our wireless technology," said Matt Saunders, vice president of marketing for IoT products, Silicon Labs. "Orvibo is a great example of how Silicon Labs' industry-leading Zigbee wireless solution helps companies bring innovative smart home products to market, simplifying development and accelerating time to market."

Orvibo selected the Silicon Labs' Zigbee SoC for the MixPad smart panel, switch, and controller series. The Orvibo powerful system hardware and Silicon Labs' Zigbee high-performance, low-power wireless solution integrate seamlessly, supporting functions of many different smart home devices and applications. The MixPad is the hub of the Orvibo smart home system and is designed for convenient operation to make the home life experience more natural and comfortable. The MixPad panels are user-intuitive and offer touchscreen, voice and app control and allow people to control all smart home systems from one single user interface mounted within their home.

"Orvibo is continuously exploring cutting-edge AloT technology, and Silicon Labs' invaluable smart home industry insights and world-class IoT platforms are key assets for us as we chart our path forward to create better and intuitive smart home living experiences for our customers," said Mark Wang, Founder, Chairman and CEO of Orvibo. "We are delighted to roll out our modernized MixPad smart home products using Silicon Labs wireless technology, and we look forward to seeing the products be deployed in the APAC market and beyond."

The Orvibo MixPad series product family was launched on Nov. 19. For more information on the new products, please visit orvibo.com.
